

Biography – Claire McEnergy

Claire was born in Oswaldtwistle, but grew up on a farm in Read, a small village in the Ribble Valley. She worked as a police officer for 30 years retiring at the rank of Detective Superintendent. Claire then became an Independent Safeguarding Consultant working across various organisations. She came to faith in her 50s after a conversion experience that changed her life dramatically. Claire lives in a farmhouse in Read, next door to her mother, and is married to Steve. She has a stepdaughter and grandson. After serving several years at churches in Clayton and Altham, Claire is about to serve her curacy at her sending parish of Read St John's and Simonstone St. Peter. She is looking forward to this new challenge on her life-changing journey with God.
